

Top chef ensures quality at Morris Care

April 2008

Shropshire based Morris Care has announced the promotion of chef Paul Ratcliffe to Group Catering Manager for the division. Paul, who up until recently, was resident chef in charge at Morris Care's Corbrook Court, will now be responsible for ensuring meals served at all four of the company's care homes are of the highest standard.

Paul brings a wealth of experience to his new role, having previously worked in a Michelin starred restaurant in central France and having catered for 2,750 passengers on a Royal Caribbean Cruise Liner. With an impressive list of culinary awards to his name, Paul now provides residents at all Morris Care homes with delicious and nutritious meals ensuring that all special dietary requirements are catered for.

Paul commented: "I am thrilled to have been offered this fantastic new position and delighted that my skills have been recognised by Morris Care. I have thoroughly enjoyed my seven years at Corbrook Court and am now looking forward to working with the catering teams across the company."

Morris Care recognises that the provision of fresh ingredients and superbly presented meals, plus catering for specialist diets is as much a mark of good care provision as excellent nursing. This philosophy has recently been rewarded by the presentation of the highest level Platinum award to three of its care homes by the Shropshire Healthy Eating Award Scheme.

Chief Executive of Morris Care, Margaret Maudsley, underlined the importance of a healthy menu: "Providing high-quality cuisine is absolutely essential and we pride ourselves on offering wholesome, nutritious and delicious meals to all our residents. We are pleased to be able to offer Paul this new role and congratulate him on his fantastic achievement."
